OLIVE'S ADVENTURE.

"But I don't believe any one would take the trouble to molest us," said Mr. Jaynesford, generally, as he threw a fag log, and the dead leaves, among which he lay, into the autumn time, upon the blazing fire.

"In the first place, we've got nothing to steal, and in the second place, if we were all murdered, I can't see any particular good it would do anybody. So I calculate we may sleep quietly in our beds."

"Yes, but," said Mrs. Jaynesford, with an anxious look (she was a modern Martha, chambered with many cases of this singular, hard-working, yellow-faced farmer's wife), "I really think you ought to get an extra bolt on the back door, and I never did think a hook and staple was a safe thing for the little hall door. If there was a gang of burglars and murderers going through the country."

And Olive, the little, little school-mistress, who happened that week to be "boarding" at Farmer Jaynesford's, moved her head instinctively closer into the angle of the chimney corner, and lifted a pair of large, gray, startled eyes toward the good man, who had just said those words.

"Fiddlers!" ejaculated Mr. Jaynesford. "I keep a loaded rifle and old Towner has a shotgun, and if they ever come here they'll find out as plain as day."

"It is such a thing as foreshadowing," said Olive, "that I feel very seriously."

"What, Olive? What's the matter with you?" asked Mr. Jaynesford, looking at her with a frown.

"I feel as if I should be very careful," said Olive, "and I don't like to go to bed with a loaded rifle and old Towner's shotgun."

"What's the matter with you?" asked Mr. Jaynesford, looking at her with a frown.

"I feel as if I should be very careful," said Olive, "and I don't like to go to bed with a loaded rifle and old Towner's shotgun."

"What's the matter with you?" asked Mr. Jaynesford, looking at her with a frown.

Salvation Oil delights everybody. It can be had of all druggists and dealers in medicines. It eradicates pain by quickly removing the cause. It is a specific for neuralgia, rheumatism, and pain in the back, neck and limbs. Price 25 cents.

She certainly had a pretty foot, but after all it didn't make half so much impression on him as the old man's.

People who cannot spend the season of winds and cold rains in sunny Florida should keep Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in the house. It is the best remedy for colds and coughs and will relieve suffering at once.

"Marriage," said an unfortunate husband, "is the churchyard of love."

"And you men," replied his wife, "are the grave-diggers."

"We notice that agricultural newspapers all over the country are now expounding the worthlessness of the large 25 cent packs of horse and cattle powders. We put the bull in motion and claim the credit of it. Merced's Country Condition Powders are absolutely pure, and are the only kind worth buying.

A man who had a scolding wife being asked what he did for a living, replied that he kept a hot-house.

"Mike was asked if he believed in second love. "Fath, n' I do!" said he. "If you have a pound of sugar, isn't it sweet? And when that is gone; don't you want another; and isn't that sweeter, too?"

That slight cough you think so little of may prove the forerunner of a complaint that may be fatal. Avoid the result by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the best of known remedies for colds, coughs, catarrhs, bronchitis, incipient consumption, and all other throat and lung diseases.

"Do you know a good way of curing hags?" asked a man of his neighbor. "Oh, yes," was the reply; "but the trouble with me is, I have to use of procuring them."

DETECTIVES AND PRIVATE OPERATIONS usually wear their badges on the shoulders. But Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil wears its badge in the form of printed labels attached to each and every bottle, so that all may know its mission. It is given full and complete authority to arrest all aches and pains, and does its duty every time.

"In an exchange we find an article about a mother-in-law, and in beautiful harmony, the next item is headed 'The Storm Elsewhere.'"

"How are we going to get through our spring and summer work? We are all run down, tired out before it begins." So say many a farmer's family. We answer, go to your druggist and pay five dollars for six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This is just the medicine you need, and will pay compound interest on the investment.
